

OFFCUTS

In an update of the systematic review conducted by Professor David Foxcroft and colleagues for the NHS Centre for Reviews and Dissemination, the Iowa Strengthening Families Program featured in issue 3 was recently singled out as the most promising alcohol misuse prevention intervention for young people. Speaking at the Annual Symposium of the Society for the Study of Addiction on 8-9 November, Professor Foxcroft pointed out that the programme's impact seemed to increase over time, consistent with its intention to alter the trajectory of adolescent development.
